in a pioneering study david shaner uses the resources of phenomenology to penetrate buddhist philosophy in terms of kūkai and dgen in addition to this original and rigorous methodology his work offers insights into some fundamental difficulties intrinsic to comparative studies the problem of the relation between body and mind is a prime example shaner s observations shed a brilliant light on these traditional antinomies as they may be resolved or more accurately dissolved when seen in their appropriate contexts in addressing these issues the study also contributes to the understanding of common features that underlie the various doctrines of Japanese Buddhism this work will appeal to both East and West phenomenologists philosophers interested in the mind body problem scholars of comparative philosophy and students of Japanese philosophy and religion

The experience of reproductive loss raises a series of profoundly theological questions: how can God have a plan for my life? Why didn't God answer my prayers? How can I have hope after such an experience? Who am I after such a loss? Sadly, these are questions that along with reproductive loss have largely been ignored in theology. Karen O'Donnell tackles these questions head-on, drawing on her own experiences of repeated reproductive loss as she re-conceives theology from the perspective of the miscarrying person. Offering a fresh, original, and creative approach to theology, O'Donnell explores the complexity of the miscarrying body and its potential for theological revelation. She offers a re-conception of theologies of providence, prayer, hope, and the body as she reimagines theology out of these messy origins. This book is for those who have experienced such losses and those who minister to them, but it is also for all those who want to encounter a creative and imaginative approach to theology and the life of faith in our messy, complex world.

In Encounter with Enlightenment, Robert E. Carter puts forth the East and specifically Japan as a source of possible solutions to the world's social, economic, and environmental problems. Not only is the book a sustained scholarly analysis of both the religious and philosophical roots of Japan's distinctive ethical approach to life, but it also provides the Western reader with a context for understanding Eastern values. Values that, although familiar to the West, tend to be deemphasized. Encounter with Enlightenment begins a horizontal fusion between East and West and establishes a common ground for mutual understanding and for working toward an ethical approach that could resolve some of the Earth's difficulties.

Drawing on their extensive clinical experience in working with groups, Marianne and Gerald Corey have updated their best-seller with new examples, guidelines, insights, and ideas that demonstrate how group leaders can apply the basic issues and key concepts of the group process to a variety of groups. Offering up-to-date coverage of both the what is and the how to of group counseling, the sixth edition features a greater focus on cultural competence, more technological integration, and more case examples and sample dialogues in every chapter.

This text highlights the attributes that make good group leaders and shows how to design and lead specialized groups. The basic issues and key concepts of group process are outlined.

and the way in which group leaders can apply these concepts in working with a variety of groups is illustrated
